Stand Strong: In College

Synopsis

College is a fun and exciting time, but also one that presents teens with many challenges. How can Christian teens prepare for the academic, social, emotional, and spiritual challenges they may face in college? Prepare to stand strong! Alex McFarland offers teens help by asking the questions they need to consider for an unshakable faith. Prepared, they can enter college with the ability to identify false worldviews and discern God's voice. Teens will become proficient at interpreting campus content and circumstances from a consistently biblical perspective. They will know how to nurture and develop their faith and begin a life of service to God even in a stressful changing environment.

Customer Reviews

Dr. Alex McFarland, religion and culture expert, is a renowned authority in Christian apologetics (one who explains and rationally defends faith). He is the author of many books, including the devotional book series for teens: "Stand: Seeking the Way of God", "Unleashing the Wisdom of God" and "Diving into the Word of God". He has several new books that will be released in 2011-2012, including his newest book that was just released through Broadman & Holman, "10 Questions Every Christian Must Answer". Dr. McFarland is the host of "Sound Reason", airing across the country on the National Religious Broadcaster's Network and he also co-hosts "Explore the Word" with Marvin Sanders on the American Family Radio Network, airing on nearly 200 stations. He served as the president of Southern Evangelical Seminary in North Carolina, has spoken in hundreds of locations throughout the U.S. and abroad, and has been interviewed by all the top Christian and secular media outlets. He spent over two decades training teens and adults in biblical worldview reasoning, much of that time working with Focus on the Family. Through his Stand Weekends for teens, and the annual National Conference on Christian Apologetics, Dr. McFarland works toward his goal of introducing new audiences to the truths of Christianity.

Bought Stand Strong by Alex McFarland for a gift for a high school graduate in my church. I have followed Alex McFarland and his work with apologetics for a long time. I truly appreciate his ability to reach out and touch the hearts and minds of teens and young adults, as well as adults of any age. Stand Strong is an excellent book to give to anyone you care about being able to defend their faith, especially within the secular college environment that is increasingly hostile to the Christian faith. Alex's book has been written "for such a time as this".

GOOD BOOK, GOOD AUTHOR

Book arrived on time and in super condition. My teenage son (18) said that this book really spoke to him. He said all young men should read this book. It is helping him to stay strong in his faith while attending college. He says it is a challenge and one needs all the support one can get. This book does just that and he is glad I bought it for him.

I give this book as a gift to seniors in High School. None of them have ever complained. I read it before I gave it to them. It gives good basic principles to defend your faith.

Our daughter loves this book. It helps support her beliefs in her faith while being in an environment such as college where those beliefs and standards will be challenged.

This book was absolutely awful. It encourages young people to be close minded and flat out refuse to do school assignments if there is a slight possibility they may be exposed to new ideas or opinions. It says that it is the reader's obligation to harass and bully members of other faiths (and homosexuals) they may encounter, how is that acceptable?! This book describes an obnoxious, pushy and judgmental version of Christianity (while strongly implying on every page that evangelical Christians are the ones being persecuted at every turn). This book is a perfect example of why many young people are becoming atheists; they want to get away from this culture of judgment, hate, superiority and fear.
