Customer Reviews

As a regular visitor to Melbourne I tend to get a little overwhelmed with the dining opportunities and I have a huge "FOMO". Well actually I have FOMA - fear of missing ANYTHING. Monique's second book is fantastic - within minutes of buying it I found so many new place that are destined to be on my favourites list. No one really knows the eating scene in Melbourne quite the way that Monique Bayer does - so excited to find this book.

Melbourne is an amazing destination for beauty, natural features and culture but the depth of the food scene on my husband's and my trip there was an incredible surprise! Food being an important part of traveling for us, we picked up this guide because we were hoping for a local perspective on the food scene, rather than relying on Trip Advisor, which can be spotty in our experience. My favorite part was the thorough coverage of the city's coffee scene. We spent a lot of time "cafe hopping". The coffee scene in Melbourne was unreal and we this guide really helped us be plugged into it along with all the other great eats we had. We've used the Glutton Guide in Shanghai and love it so were happy to see that the quality is also high for other cities.
