In each semester's six labs, students are videotaped in activities such as making a joint sales call, panel interview, selling oneself on a job interview, product sales presentations, and various experiential exercises. TAMU's College of Business Administration and Graduate School of Business is one of the largest business programs in the U.S., with more than 6,000 full-time business majors. Approximately 50 percent of the marketing department's 800 majors are in Charles's personal selling and/or sales management classes at various times. He has worked with close to 10,000 students in sales-related classes. Professor Futrell's books, research, and teaching are based on his extensive work with sales organizations of all types and sizes. This broad and rich background has resulted in his being invited to be a frequent speaker, researcher, and consultant to industry.

This book legitimately sucks and it is completely out of date and I really don't think it applies to today's selling standards.

Came as described and in a timely manner.

It was a decent book, but not what I expected.

Very odd book so far, and I am finding it a bit religious. Odd.

This was exactly as advertised and delivered as expected.

Good book

As close to useless and far away from reality as a book can be, and it's expensive. If zero stars were an option.....

Arrived quickly and in excellent condition for a used textbook, easy return instructions at the end of the rental period.
